

Appearance

This ring is in the shape of a ring, with a deep black body and green textures in between, like flowing veins intertwined and entwined, presenting a unique and luxurious visual effect. The texture is natural and irregular, giving each ring a unique appearance.

Material characteristics

- Material composition: Forged carbon fiber is a composite of carbon fiber and matrix material through special processes (such as resin impregnation, high temperature and high pressure curing, etc.). In this ring, the golden texture is achieved by adding metal fiber (such as gold foil, copper fiber, etc.) or special metal pigments.
- Physical properties: It has the characteristics of high strength and low density of carbon fiber, which is lighter and more comfortable to wear than traditional metal rings; it also has good wear resistance and corrosion resistance, is not easy to deform or rust, and can maintain its exquisite appearance for a long time. Craftsmanship and design

- Craftsmanship: Using forging technology, materials such as carbon fiber are subjected to complex shaping and curing processes to create a smooth ring structure with fine surface treatment, clear texture and rich texture.
- Design: Combining modern technology and fashion elements, the combination of black and green is classic and elegant. It is suitable for daily wear to show personality, and can also be used in formal occasions to show taste. It is suitable for a variety of style combinations.
