TZR0003 is a high polished Timascus Wedding Band with tricolors and a domed faceted shape.

Titanium Damascus (also called Timascus) and Zircuti are innovative materials, Titanium Damascus and Zircuti are similar to Damascus steel. Damascus steel is forged from two or more steels. Titanium Damascus is made up of two or more titanium alloys (usually CP and 6AL4V today), Zircuti is made from a forged rod containing zirconium and three different titanium alloys. Timascus and Zircuti are corrosion resistant, non-magnetic and light in texture. They have the beautiful design and appearance of Damascus steel and do not have the disadvantages of steel. They are made by placing different titanium alloys in a metal box, filling them with inert gas, and applying heat and pressure to forge the two alloys to be rolled together. At present, timascus and zircuti staining treatment generally uses heating to change the color, rather than anodizing it. Of course, all current safe coloring technologies can be applied to Timascus and Zircuti. In the future, different combinations of steel alloys will have different colors.

The irregular pattern of Timascus and Zircuti and the principle of fading at high temperatures give Timascus and Zircuti the beauty of multiple colors. Timascus and Zircuti are widely used today to adorn knives, rings, necklaces, pendants, and other accessories.

The Timascus ring and the Zircuti ring are sturdy, beautifully colored, and each has a unique texture. Irregular, elegant and rough cutting surface, full of mystery. The texture of Timascus and Zircuti does not fade, and over time a thin layer of oxide will form on the surface, the surface will be faint but the texture will remain the same. It can also be re-polished to give it a new look. Timascus and Zircuti are hypoallergenic and do not react uncomfortably to the skin, nor do they stain the skin like gold, silver and copper.
